

ATLANTA'S CHANCES SEEM BEST FOR BIG METHODIST UNIVERSITY

Atlanta, July 15.—The Educational Commission representing the Methodist Church met today to hear the recommendation of the sub-committee and decide the location of the new university. It is practically certain that Atlanta's offer of two million three hundred thousand will be accepted and the institution will be located here, though the committee will probably not make known its decision until late this afternoon.

Chairman Shook, of the Birmingham delegation created a sensation when he told the committee that he was informed by Bishop Candler had stated before the hearings began that the university would be located in Atlanta. The Bishop denied the statement. Debate was warm.

STEAMER STRIKES TORPEDO BOAT

Portland, Me., July 15.—The steamship Governor Dingley, of the Eastern Steamship company, on her way from St. John to Boston, collided with the United States torpedo boat Rodgers in Portland harbor yesterday. A large hole was stove in the Rodgers when the plate well forward and below the water line were ripped off. The steamer stood by to give aid, but the torpedo boat succeeded in reaching Brown's wharf under its own steam. A detachment of the Massachusetts naval reserve on their way to Bar Harbor was aboard the Rodgers.

LOCAL MEN GET CITY HALL JOB

BROWN AND FLOWERS AWARDED CONTRACT FOR $27,800; W. F. MARTIN GETS WIRING, PLUMBING AND HEATING CONTRACT FOR $3,300.

The contract for the construction of a City Hall building in Dothan was let this morning to Brown and Flowers, local contractors, for $27,800 and work will be started as early as practicable. W. F. Martin was awarded the plumbing, heating and wiring contract, the price being $3,300.

Now that the contract has been let, Brown and Flowers say that work will be started possibly within two weeks. They figure that it will take at least six or seven months to complete the job, owing to the usual delay in getting material on the ground.

The city is anxious to have the building completed as early as possible, and it is thought the contractors will do the work in the shortest time possible.

The Dothan contractors were awarded the work over a number of out-of-town bidders. Following are the bids submitted:

Brown and Flowers, Dothan, $27,800. For terra cotta and stone front added $2,025.

W. E. Mashburn, Atlanta, $28,900. For stone front, $1,775 added. Aiken & Parr, Atlanta, $29,675. For stone front $29,300.

Bids for heating, plumbing, etc., were:

NEGRO MAID GIVES TESTIMONY AGAINST MRS. CARMAN

New York, July 15.—Detectives today began a search for two women who were in the outer office of Dr. Carman when Mrs. Louise Bailey was assassinated. The women are wanted to go before the grand jury. The chief points in the state's case against Mrs. Carman are that she installed a dictograph to spy on her husband; admitted by Doctor that she watched him through the window through which the shot was fired; negro cook testified Mrs. Carman ran excitedly into the kitchen hiding something in her waist immediately after the shot was fired; woman answering Mrs. Carman's description was seen leaving window after the shot was fired. Prosecutor Smith is making every effort to strengthen these points.

Inge Free But Must Leave, Says Verdict

Sentence against Ed Inge, who was last week sent to the county roads, was suspended today by Mayor Joe Baker pending the former's absence from the city. This is taken to mean that Mayor Baker will not insist on Inge serving out his time, provided he leaves town.

Along with two others, who have paid their fines and gotten out of the difficulty, Ed Inge was tried in Mayor's court on a charge of vagrancy, fined and sentenced to six months hard labor.

Friends of Inge got busy and obtained a parole from Governor O'Neal, which the executive later revoked, according to reports. Not discouraged on account of this, his release was still sought, it is said, and Mayor Baker ordered the release of the prisoner conditionally. Relatives of Inge telephoned the Eagle office yesterday and said he was crippled and disabled for work.

Having once been condemned to hang the first woman under sentence of death in this state since colonial times, Mrs. Wakefield appealed her case to the supreme court of the state and won a new trial. Plew was hanged on May 1 last for the crime, having admitted his guilt.

Vera Cruz, July 15.—U. S. Military authorities will show every courtesy to the family of Huerta and relatives and other officials who are fleeing from Mexico City. General Funston is of the opinion, however, they will not come here, but will go to Puerto Mexico. Should refugees come here, Americans do not know what will be done with the thirteen hundred Mexican troops accompanying them. The departure of Senora Huerta and children is taken as a sure sign that the dictator is soon to follow as she has declared repeatedly she would not desert him.

HUERTA DRINKING

Vera Cruz, July 15.—That President Huerta is drinking heavily again after an abstinence of several weeks, and is wavering between a desire to escape from the country and a wish to fight his enemies to the end, is the tenor of the latest reports received from the capital yesterday. His steady companion in the drinking bouts is said to be Jose Maria Lavarra, the former cabinet minister whose influence several times has thwarted the efforts of foreign diplomats to induce Huerta to resign. British Consul J. R. Hutchison, who is in daily communication with the capital, expects Huerta to announce his retirement today, but he is not absolutely certain that the dictator will not at the last moment in a rage inspired by liberal libations of a cognac decide to fight his foes and fall fighting.

PRESIDENT MAY LOSE FIGHT FOR JONES CONFIRMATION

Washington, July 15.—Owing to defection in the Senate, President Wilson may lose the fight for Jones confirmation. He conferred with Hankhead and other leaders today. The vote will likely be postponed several days.

A CHAMPION WORTH WHILE.

Savannah News.

When Zachariah J. Drake died the other day at his plantation home not far from Bennettsville, S. C., there passed away the only man who ever grew 254 bushels of corn on one acre. The feat was accomplished in 1889. Some day that record may be broken, but if so it will be largely because Capt. Drake's success started the movement that has resulted in the formation of corn clubs all over the South. Farmers and farmer boys who have done their level best in corn growing contests know how difficult it is to raise even a hundred bushels on one acre and they know better than anybody else what a great thing Capt. Drake accomplished when he showed the champions of his acre a great pile of corn that measured 254 bushels.

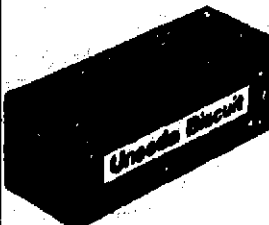

Capt. Drake's name deserves to be remembered. No doubt his memory will be preserved by a few persons, but the general public will quickly forget him. If he had been a champion prize fighter instead of a champion corn grower even the lads in the street would have known all about him, his height, his weight, how far he could reach, the men he had beaten down in the ring and the name of the great fighter who at last beat him down. If he had been a great baseball player the record of the hits he made and the famous games he helped to win would be known far and wide. And yet no prize fighter, no baseball player who ever lived did as much for his country as the quiet, unassuming, modest farmer who showed the world that 254 bushels of corn could be grown upon one acre in the South.

Monuments by thousands are erected to the memory of soldiers and statesmen. That is right, and just, but the men who have accomplished great things elsewhere than on the battlefield and in the forum are just as deserving of tribute. It is a compliment to the wisdom of the people of Florida that they have placed a monument to Dr. Gorrie, the inventor of the first process for making artificial ice, in Sanitary Hall at Washington, and to the people of Georgia that they are planning to honor Dr. Crawford W. Long in the same way because of his pioneer work in anaesthesia. South Carolina has had many more famous sons than Capt. Drake, and some may have served mankind much better than he, but surely somewhere in the State there should be erected a monument to preserve the memory of the man who was a champion worth while.

Commissioner Watson of the South Carolina Department of Agriculture in an interview the other day said he would rather see a monument to Capt. Drake than to the most famous soldier the state ever produced, because he was a conservative type, while soldiers,

SLEEP ENOUGH.

Memphis Commercial Appeal.

It was wise old Benjamin Franklin who said "early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise."

Our modern scientists are of the same opinion, that is, so far as the health is concerned.

There is a theory among some people that sleep is not necessary. Thomas Alva Edison is of the opinion that four hours sleep is enough for any healthy man. According to the best advanced theories of our medical men, Edison is wrong. The body needs rest and must have it. Unless we have full and complete rest our physical machinery will wear out. Any machinist will tell you that an engine cannot run always without becoming useless in the end. It must be rested, cared for and well oiled.

So it is with the human body. Especially in summer the value of sleep should be appreciated. Scientists and nerve specialists may insist that a man may extend his life by following new ideas, but the old-fashioned advice of Franklin seems the best and the wisest. Go to bed early. Sleep soundly and get up at an early hour. This is the safe and sane policy.

It is folly to think that any man can do as much work after few hours of sleep as he can after he has enjoyed a good night's rest.

Seven, eight, or even nine hours' sleep help toward confidence and health.

Some very active brain workers may be able to get along with little sleep. A man of the nervous temperament of Edison probably finds but little sleep necessary, but it may be mentioned in this connection that Edison had to abandon work and go to Europe for rest and to regain his shattered health.

If all the facts concerning the men who protest that four hours' sleep is ample for health and length of life were obtainable it would be found in most instances that they would have been stronger physically and mentally if they had conserved their vitality by indulging in more rest.

Sleep is still Nature's sweet restorer, and sleep still knits up the ravaged sleeve of care. It is not wise to ignore its beneficial effect on the body and mind.

Now that we are face to face with the most tedious season of the year it is well to remember that the body and mind should not be abused. Mothers should let their children sleep as long as they want and should sleep themselves when they have the chance.

HOW TO ELIMINATE WOMEN TEACHERS.

Ohio's superintendent of schools is vexed because the crafty bachelors keep depleting his brigade of teachers of domestic science. Just as soon as they get their cooking and home making diplomas the heartless collaterals steal them from the service of the state. The superintendent wants the raiders to devote their maraudings to the Latin, Greek and generally intellectual division of his pedagogical army.—Mobile Item.

Recently some dunces said the time was coming when there would be no women teachers. If that time ever comes it will be after domestic science is mastered by every woman teacher. The lady who knows how to pad and line an ironing board, spank a baby and flip a batter cake is the lady who, now or ever, is in greatest demand by those men who now and then go n-plundering for wives.

The tango and the maxixe are all right in their places, but you can't eat a new dance. "All right in their place," we said—but we are not sure that the fashionable ball room is the place for them. However that is another subject.—Montgomery Advertiser.

LUKE MURKIN SAYS

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

It doesn't hurt to be honest once in a while. It wasn't for the fear of being found out nearly every married man would have an affair.

You never realize how much swearing lessens pain until you try to swear off swearing.

After a woman has been married for 10 years she spends just as much time dressing and dolling up, but she doesn't get the same results as she did before she was married.

The reason why a lot of girls pose around on dry land at the bathing beaches is because their complexions are waterproof, but their bathing suits are not.

A maiden who is built like a pan-cake thinks it is very vulgar to perspire. But a corn fed girl either has to sweat or bust.

There ain't no such animal as platitude. The man and the woman are like the salted powders in the blue and white wrappers. They are harmless until they mis-gle.

HOUSEHOLD CONVENIENCES

I want to tell you about two conveniences I have recently found that will help you.

One is a moth-proof closet for only $1. It comes folded and packed flat. Postage paid for the above amount. It is made of heavy card board rendered moth-proof by some process, and you have only to open it up, and pack your winter clothing in it, tie it up again, and stand it back in a closet. So you have a cedar closet! The one I have is 36 inches long by 18 high and 18 wide. There is enough room to pack at least six suits of heavy outer clothing. I have in mine all my winter underwear, two hats a muff, and several dresses.

The other helper is a glass jar with fitted top through the center of which runs a metal dasher spirally twisted. Moving the dasher up and down it is turned around by the spirals passing through the hole in the top. Thus by only moving it up and down two movements are given it. Eggs, mayonnaise, anything can be beaten very quickly in this.—L. M. C. in The Progressive Farmer.

WORLD-WIDE DESTROYED. IMPLEMENTS ON CREDIT IF COULD NOT GET THEM OTHERWISE

In making my 1913 crop I first broke deeply all the land that I could November and December 1912 especially where I was forced to put cotton after cotton and also where I had to put cotton after corn. I kept all land plowed harrowed from time to time with an Acme harrow, thus insuring moisture and keeping the soil in the proper tilth until planting time. This is what I will term the first principle in making a cheap and at the same time a good yield of cotton.

Secondly (I don't know if I should not have said first) I planted with seed that were kept pure and personally stalk selected for several years. However on account of extreme weather I got a very irregular stand. I then ran a weeder over the rows using two mules to a spring tooth harrow to run out middles. I then took a lighter spring tooth with fender and took both sides of row at one trip chopped to stand, one stalk in hill two to three feet apart in the drill. I ran the same light spring tooth taking a whole row at a trip putting the cotton in much of or shape than the old fashion sweeps would have done at four trips to the row. After this I cultivated from time to time generally every other side each week with walking, one horse Planet II cultivator. I tried to keep a dust mulch all the time until cotton was too late for small sweeps and then plowed it a time or two with a large sweep on regular stock set flat. I usually cultivate until I see the first bulls cracking.

Results 76 bales averaging over 500 pounds each on 16 acres was only an average yield as I have made 78 bales on 25 acres.

I know lots of men will criticize, saying: Oh! I haven't all those implements. I didn't have them either when I started farming, a few years ago but bought them from time to time as I could but if it were to do over again with the experience I have had I would buy them first for cash if possible. If not then on time for they will save more than enough to pay for them in one year. Let's count the cost and see if just one or two more bales of cotton would not pay for them.

One spring tooth harrow $4.00
One all steel spring tooth harrow 5.50
One Acme harrow 15.00
One Planet Jr. with disk attachment 15.00
One weeder 10.00
Total $49.50

We received more than this for an average bale of cotton last fall. These facts and experience have made such a believer of me that this spring I have bought me a two row distributor, two horse spring cultivator with disk and spring tooth attachments and a lime spreader. I also need this to sow acid and potash on oats—D. J. Simmons in The Progressive Farmer.

WHY SOUTHERN SOILS ARE POOR

I notice in your issue of May 2 that some member of the staff has the nerve to tell the truth about Southern soils under the heading Southern Soils are Poor—But May be Made Immensely Fertile.

Of course they are poor. No one with good sense of observation ever doubted it except he was misled by the orators. And why are they poor? Because of cheap labor and because of certain climatic conditions which properly cooperated with will make fields fertile but which improperly operated with have made our fields infertile. The climatic conditions to which I allude are first, the long warm season during which decay goes on rapidly and second, the abundant rainfall. The first changes the organic matter to forms in which it is both of use and in danger of loss. The second makes it a loss by washing the soil from the subsoil.

There has been practiced in the South for years and years a species of bonanza farming with the same motto as in the Northwest. Get it out of the land. This kind of farming has been longer continued than in the Northwest because the soil and climate together bear it longer. The favorable climate has to some extent obscured the real condition of the soil from us. We have thought that our soil was rich when in reality the richness of it has been mostly in the climate and the end of our bonanza farming has been reached before we knew it.

With favorable climatic condition in the South a given yield say 20 bushels per acre of corn indicates a poorer soil than does the same yield in the North. What then if our yield has fallen below the Northern yield? In some way our low yield must have been more profitable else we would have come to our senses before. And such is the case.

While labor in the bonanza farming of the Northwest was always high labor in the South has always been low. This has made a low yield profitable and a more complete skinning of the land possible. Let us summarize. At first a rain rapid decay of soil materials and cheap labor have together made possible the profitable production of very low yields of cotton—practically a poor land crop on very poor land. And so poor land has resulted in the natural order.

But who will say that we could not have the rain or the long warm season or the cheap labor? Surely in these very things which have all but proved our ruin we have the means of developing an extremely fertile soil. These conditions properly cooperated with will build up our land just as improperly operated with they have torn it down. The first class climatic conditions which the South has with first class attention to the soil will certainly also rich soil and large crops. The climate we already have the attention to the soil is what The Progressive Farmer preaches in every issue. M. F. Sherwin in The Progressive Farmer.

Love and Life—

Most men know love, but as a part of life.

They hide it in some corner of the breast

Even from themselves, and only when they rest

In the brief pauses of that daily strife

Wherever the world might else be not so life

They draw it forth (as one draws forth a toy.)

To soothe some ardent, kin-erecting boy.

And hold it up to sister, child or wife

As naught! Why may not love and life be one?

Why walk, we thus alone, when by our side

Love, like a visible god, might be our guide?

How would the marts grow noble and the street

Worn like a dungeon floor by weary feet

Seem then a golden courtesy of the soul

Thought for the day—

There are times when we think that a little lie, a white lie, a joshing lie, any kind of a little immaturity lie, does us no harm, but we must escape from this: That every thought we think, every word we speak every deed we do, either strengthens or weakens to some degree the fabric of character. A little lie, a little misrepresentation, a little anger, a little indulgence in any negative quality, will weaken character. Just as a drop of anise dye will stain a hoghead of water, just as a grain of musk will scent a room for twenty years, so will the indulgence in a slight negative or undesirable thought, word or action, weaken one's character.

To be great personally, one must be patient in the doing of small goodnesses.—Exchange.

In Compliment to Miss Emma Neal Harris—

A beautiful party given in compliment to a lovely bride elect, Miss Emma Neal Harris was that of Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Clifford Wear entertained a few friends at her home on North Sixth street.

Mrs. J. J. Ingram and Mrs. S. H. Williams met the guests at the door and presented them to the receiving line as follows: The hostess, the honor guest, who looked lovely in white embroidered voile with touches of lavender; Miss Bernice Laws, Mrs. H. C. Jernigan, Jr., and Miss Prussia Cole.

Mrs. W. P. Chester ushered them to the punch table which was lavishly adorned in pink, white crepe myrtle and ferns, where Misses Susie Ingram, Emily Williams, Sarah Smith T and Louise Lowe gracefully presided.

Pink and white crepe myrtle and sunflowers added to the attractiveness of the reception rooms and the dining room was especially pretty. In this room a white parol was suspended and as the bride-to-be stepped forward, Miss Susie Ingram tilted the parol and she was the recipient of many dainty gifts.

THE COMBINATION DANCES

By ODGERS T. GURNEE

Illustrated With Specially Posed Photographs

THE hunt for new steps and new rhythm has brought forth a number of striking dances that combine the basic principles of two or three of the older figures.

In some of these the tempo of the music changes to fit the dance, but in the later and more complete a new and distinct tempo is carried throughout, and the steps are made to fit the melody.

The leading instructors in this country have been the pioneers in this matter, and the Howley Downs "moderation," Vernon Castle's "half and half" and the "pounce cat" of Miss Winn and Mr. Evans are being tried on nearly every dancing floor in New York, Philadelphia, Boston and possibly Chicago.

Among the earliest ones were John Sawyer's "three in one" and "herringbone waltz." These were both very pretty, but had one fault in that the tempo of the music was changed at frequent intervals to fit the different styles of figures.

In the recent combinations, however, the action is unbroken throughout. Take the "moderation," for instance. This has a special melody in seven-quarter time and combines the steps of the waltz and tango.

On the same general principle is the "half and half," originated by Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle. This, too, has a melody all its own in five-quarter time and combines the steps of the waltz and one step.

Word comes from Paris that a new dance known as "la danse hypnotique" has been introduced there with great success. It is said to be very difficult and the highest form attainable in scientific dancing. The names of the figures tend to bear out this statement.

The first is "fascination." This is followed by "fascination," a suggestion of catlepsy, and then "the hypnotic step." Then comes "lethargy." The last figure of all is "comat."

In dancing the "moderation" and the "half and half" there are no new steps to be learned. The difference is all with the tempo. Any music seven-quarter or five-quarter time is suitable, and once you have mastered the swing of the music it will be a simple matter to dance them.

Of course it is possible to devise steps or change some of the old ones to fit a beat in the new motif; but, as a rule, the standardized steps go best.

In this regard it is well to say a word in favor of the effort to standardize dancing steps.

Miss Flora Vorhees, leader in the movement, says:

"The new dances must be standardized before they can become actually the expression of the age. But the dancers rush with the coolness of a driver in an automobile race to ballroom or dance hall, where they frolic in the joy of living, but few of them move with consciousness of accuracy. They dance because the spirit of the dance is in them, but they do not know how or what they dance. They say they are tangoing or one stepping when they do not know the steps of either the tango or the one step. In spite of their description of the dance.

THE VERNON CASTLE IN A STEP FROM THE "HALF AND HALF."

If a man from Pittsburgh tried to tango with a maid from New York, their first attempt would probably be some sort of a "confusion caper," or if the couple chanced to keep the same step for a minute or two their dance would be a "coincidence crawl."

The age is one of frenzy; reduced to a formula, deliberation galvanized by giddiness, and the new dances are in emphatic harmony with all we do. They are executed with studied abandon. They are wild and free within the limit of intention—that is, they are such inherently and fundamentally. They are at present uncertain and confused.
